April 12, 2011 at 10:10PM

Now that everyone has gotten in their applications. The deadline is April 15, 2011 -- just a few days away. One question we get often is what happens if you submit more than one application? We will only use the most recent and/or complete application we have on file. So if you've accidentally or intentionally submitted more than one application, rest assured that we will only judge your most recent and complete application. Thank you everyone. Check back for updates once the deadline passes!
